Hello fellow pilots,

After getting registered with this forum again, I am able to post my flight reports here. During the month of May, I added 256MB more RAM to my computer so I was able to use FS2004 with it's scenery turned to full power. I will be doing some screenshots here soon so you will see what I mean.
Even though this is only 4 flights, they were rather long but a lot of fun.

HI203 LAX-HNL B767-300 N656HI

5 hours, 12 minutes
64,774.32 LBS fuel used.
Visual RWY8R used.

HI200 HNL-SFO B767-300 N656HI

4 hours, 35 minutes
63,375.3 LBS fuel
ILS28L approach
NOTE: Caught a phenomenal tailwind for this flight

HI CH-1 SFO-YSSY (Sydney) B747-400 N197HI

13 hours, 25 minutes
297,371.6 Lbs fuel
ILS 16R approach

HI CH-2 YSSY-SFO B747-400 N197HI

13 hours, 13 minutes
302,256.1 Lbs fuel
Visual 28R approach

Comments: The B767 flights were flown using the Project Opensky model 767. The 747 flights were done using the default 747-400 for FS2004. Real time weather, fuel planning, and high altitude routing were all used for these flights. There were no problems to report.

Total flights: 4
Total flight hours: 36 hours, 25 minutes

Always be safe and have fun flying
